FILE INVENTORIES IN SEVERAL ESTATES OF DECEDENTS

Bristol Woman Wills Husband
$1 and Balance of Estate
To Children

THE VANSANT ESTATE
Bensalem Presbyterian Church is Bequeathed the Sum of $500

DOYLESTOWN, Nov. 24 — Cutting her husband, John Brennan, off with a bequest of $1, Mary A. Brennan, of Bristol, directed that her estate of $2000 should be distributed among her children, Mary, Margaret and Catherine Brennan, and Elizabeth Parsons and John Brennan. The estate was composed of real estate, $1500, and personal, $500. In her will the testatrix alleged that her husband deserted her and did not aid her in supporting the children.

Leaving an estate of $2131.71, Henry W. Vansant, of Bensalem township, directed that the bulk of his estate, with real estate holdings valued at $1200, be given to relatives. The Farmers' National Bank of Bucks County was appointed executor.

The testator created a trust fund of $500 for the benefit of the Bensalem Presbyterian Church cemetery fund. To a cousin, Emma Scott, and another cousin, Anna Gale Scott, both of 858 North Twenty-fourth street, Philadelphia, and a friend, Josephine Winthers, 1625 Wakeling street, Frankford, he gave $600 each.

The dwelling house, located in Bensalem, will be given to Emma States, and the residue of the estate will be divided equally among George H. Ridge, Alvin Ridge and Clara Ridge Finney, of Southampton, and Luther and May Ridge, of Langhorne.

The personal estate was appraised at $921.71.

The $800 estate of Eugene S. Afflerbach, of Richland township, will be divided among his widow, Minnie S. Afflerbach, and twelve children, six of whom are minors. Harry M. Somers, Jr., was granted the letters of administration.

A widow, Florence Koch Stephen, and a son, Wallace E. Stephen, Jr., will share equally the $50,000 estate of Wallace E. Stephen, of Warminster. The Corn Exchange National Bank and Trust Company of Philadelphia was named the executor. His personal estate was valued at $50,000 and real estate holdings totaled $20,000.

Mrs. Alice Weiland will inherit the $3600 estate of her husband, Frank J. Weiland, of Springfield township. Real estate holdings amounted to $2500.

Letters of administration in the estate of John Neubert, Sr., of Dublin, amounting to $1250 were granted to Simon K. Moyer, of Blooming Glen. In the estate of Phillip Walther, of Quakertown, letters of administration were granted to Frederick Walther, 26 South Hellertown avenue, Quakertown, amounting to $2500. Mary S. Hall was granted the letters of administration in the estate of Jairus B. Hall, of Solebury amounting to $200. The heirs include Selma E. Spencer, of Spring Valley, and his widow, a resident of Lahaska.

Inventories were filed in the following estates:

MANY LOSE LICENSES IN SAFETY CAMPAIGN

All Previous Marks for Revocations
Have Been Surpassed

939 ARE WITHDRAWN

HARRISBURG, Nov. 24—A record number of motorists are losing their driving privileges as the Department of Revenue presses its campaign for reduction of highway accidents.

All previous marks for the revocation and suspension of licenses were broken last month when 939 operators' permits were withdrawn. The previous high mark was 703 withdrawals, during last April.

The October withdrawals were interpreted by the Department's Division of Safety today as reflecting the severity with which both the county courts and the division, itself, are dealing with motorists whose dangerous driving habits involve them in accidents or bring them in conflict with the Motor Vehicle Code.

"Revocations, which are based upon and are supplemental to convictions in the courts, reached the record-breaking figure of 420 during October," division officials said. "This was materially above the previous mark of 371 established during the corresponding month of 1932.

"The mounting total of revocations, all of which are for periods of one year, is evidence that courts and juries no longer are inclined to be lenient with reckless drivers who endanger the lives of other highway users. The revocation statistics sketch this attitude clearly. By the first of this month, the driving privileges of 2,750 motorists had been revoked, a decided increase from the ten-month aggregate of 2178 last year and 2549 two years ago.

"The increasing frequency of court convictions, coupled with the greater number of suspensions of licenses for less serious, but nevertheless hazardous driving practices, has resulted in the withdrawal of 6480 operators' licenses during the first ten months of this year. Last year, 5339 licenses were withdrawn during the corresponding period; in 1932, the total was 5995.

"Although educational methods may lead the majority of motorists to safer driving habits, the withdrawal of licenses continues to be the principal weapon for dealing effectively with the sizeable minority who are habitually dangerous drivers."

TAKE ACTION IN SUITS FOR LIBEL AND DIVORCE

Two Women Ask Court For Separation From Husbands

DAMAGE SUIT IS FILED

DOYLESTOWN, Nov. 24—Two libels in divorce and an action in trespass were filed in the Court of Common Pleas here.

In the first divorce action a Doylestown matron, Mrs. Anna N. Umstat, of 348 Maple avenue, alleges that her husband, Newton J. Umstat, a former resident of this place, deserted her.

According to the libel, they were united in marriage November 29, 1917, at Doylestown. The present address of the respondent is unknown.

The desertion is alleged to have taken place October 22, 1932.

Charging her husband with adultery, Mildred Gertrude Wildonger filed a libel in divorce naming a resident of Ottsville as the co-respondent and her husband, John Henry Wildonger, the respondent.

They were married June 1, 1929, at Point Pleasant.

The libellant has been a resident of Point Pleasant for the past 28 years. Mr. Wildonger also resides in Point Pleasant.

Claiming $7000 for personal damages and $500 for damages for their automobile, Charles A. Binkley and Alverda M. Binkley, of Richland township, filed an action in trespass in the Court of Common Pleas, here, naming Alpheus E. Barker, of Quakertown, the defendant.

In a statement of claim the plaintiffs, who are husband and wife, alleged that on November 12, 1932, they were riding in their car, operated by their son, Russell Binkley, which crashed into a car driven by the defendant, near Park avenue in Quakertown.

Barker is charged with negligence in operating the car.

Mrs. Binkley claims in her own behalf the sum of $5000 for personal injuries sustained. Mr. Binkley hopes to recover $500 for damages alleged to have been incurred to his car, and the sum of $2000 in his own right for his wife's injuries.

Exceptionally Fine Bill To Be at Grand Today

Another exceptionally good Saturday show will be presented at the Grand Theatre this afternoon and evening, when Randolph Scott will be seen in "Wagon Wheels," from the pen of that famous author, Zane Grey. In "Wagon Wheels," Grey has written what is without a doubt the very best story of his long career. The music follows the theme of the popular song of the same name.

The settings are laid outdoor in a most beautiful Western country, with lots of action showing our forefathers in the pioneer days and what they had to cope with—Indian raids, desertion within their ranks, storms, fire, and no overland trails.

The rest of the program has been selected with care: Cab Calloway in "Hi Di Ho," one of his original conceptions of art in music; Clark and McCullough, comedians, in "Everything's Ducky;" cartoon comedy, "Buddy's Circus;" and news events.

At the matinee only, Chapter two of "Young Eagles," will be seen.

Miss Ethel Snyder, Monroe street, will spend Thanksgiving and the week-end visiting relatives in Pittsburgh.

Miss Dorothy G. White, 603 Cedar street, week-ended in New York City. Mrs. C. J. Henningsen, Maple street, passed the week-end with relatives in Arlington, N. J.

Killed By Police Soon After Fatal Accident

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 24—(INS)—An hour after his truck had purportedly struck and killed an aged negro, Herbert B. Smith, Sr., 58-year-old father of six children, was shot to death by a police squad in the kitchen of his home early today.

The shooting was witnessed by Smith's wife who stood beside him as he held the muzzle of an unloaded shotgun in the stomach of Patrolman Lerner.

As Smith shouted a warning that he would fire unless the police left his house, a barrage of shots were fired by Lerner's comrades. Eight bullets struck him, two of them lodging in his chest near the heart, causing instant death.

The hit-and-run victim was Moses Price, 70. He died within a few minutes of the accident without regaining consciousness.

Witnesses of the accident supplied police with a description on Smith's truck and the license number of the vehicle. In line with the police department's recently launched drive against hit-and-run motorists, two plainclothes men were dispatched to Smith's home, eight blocks from the scene of the accident.

Refusing to admit them into his house, Smith, who has been a trolley motorman here for 31 years, threatened the detectives with a double-barreled shotgun.

DOYLESTOWN, Nov. 24—Claiming that he had a grudge against some of the officials of Sellersville's largest manufacturing plant valued at over $1,000,000, Owen J. Austin, 37, 115 Clymer avenue, Sellersville, last night confessed to State Police, Sellersville police and Bucks County Fire Marshal William L. Stackhouse, that he started two fires recently in the plant of the United States Gauge Company.

The fact that the plant was protected with an automatic fire sprinkler system, saved it from destruction. At the same time over 700 persons were saved jobs.

Back in 1923, Austin, who is single, set fire to the baseball grandstand in Menlo Park and for that crime served two years in the Pennsylvania institution.

Last Saturday morning, November 17, at 2.15, Elmer Thompson, watchman at the United States Gauge Company plant, discovered fire in the stock room of the drilling and timing department. The fire had done about $150 damage when the automatic sprinkler system extinguished the flames. Another fire in the same building was discovered a short time before, when a bundle of newspapers were placed next to a bucket of gasoline and ignited.

Chief of Police Hallman, of Sellersville, Trooper Felix E. Gowan, of the State Police, and County Fire Marshal William L. Stackhouse, started an immediate investigation. Suspicion pointed to Austin. Last night he confessed starting both fires because he did not like certain officials in the United States Gauge Company. Austin was a laborer at the plant. He told police that he entered the plant at night through a window and started both fires.

Austin told the officers that he picked up a number of oily rags used to wipe off machines and threw them into the stock bins, thinking the fire would spread quickly last Saturday morning.

Officials of the plant value the building and contents at $1,500,000. The plant works day and night and is rushed with orders.

At a hearing last night before Justice of the Peace W. Lee Wilhelm, Sellersville, Austin was committed to the Bucks County Prison at Doylestown without bail on a charge of arson, to await the next term of criminal court of Bucks county. His case may come before the grand jury next week.

BLAME HUNGARY

Geneva, Switzerland, Nov. 24—Evidence which Jugo-Slavia considers to be "irrefutable" is contained in the documents on which that nation bases its sensational charge of Hungarian responsibility for the assassination of King Alexander, International News Service learned today. The Jugo-Slavian evidence is being kept secret but information from most reliable sources declares that government feels certain it can prove Hungarian complicity in the inquiry slated by the League Council for January 10th. Meanwhile, Hungary continued to demand immediate investigation of the charges instead of waiting until January.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

The question seems to have come up again in the metropolitan press whether we as a nation are going to "eat American" or "eat European." With their customary nostalgic sigh, editors of the newspapers in New York and elsewhere are eloquent in their longing for bread, gingerbread and brown betty (they always remember brown betty). These, it seems, are the old favorites that have succumbed to the French, the Greek, the Italian and even the Chinese. It is a sad demise, this recurrent death of our national cookery, and they always make the most of it.

Our suffering over the culinary calamity has never attained these picturesque depths, and yet in a modest way we follow with interest any development in the national life so important as a trend in its cooking. There is reassurance, therefore, in the discovery that all is not yet lost. For, quizzed in New York, a group of world travelers expressed a general opinion that American cooking is now on a par with that of France, and superior to practically all other nationalities. One went so far as to predict that in another 10 years French cooks will come to this country to find out about cooking.

Furthermore, it developed that American cooking was not swept entirely away on the tide of goulash and chop suey that flooded the large cities. It was, it seems, kept alive by private families in small towns and villages and in country hotels conducted by descendants of Colonial stock. Now a powerful renaissance is apparent. Women have been commissioned by publishers to go about the country collecting recipes for the best dishes of each state. One New York book-shop stocks cook-books ranging in price from ten cents to sixteen dollars, all rich in American recipes. Veteran trenchermen can again put their legs under the mahogany and enjoy the dishes fondly remembered from the days of childhood and youth. The era of cooking derived from France and transmitted through Swiss and Greek interpreters did not rot the native dishes.

RECOVERY WITH FREEDOM

Visiting in New York recently, the United States minister at Stockholm, Mr. Steinhardt, reported gratifying progress toward recovery in Sweden. Unemployment has been cut in two in the space of a year. The foreign trade balance is satisfactory. The country's system of social legislation has proved adequate to the needs of the present extraordinary situation.

The three Scandinavian countries are among the first six on the League of Nations list of eighteen countries arranged in the order of industrial recovery. All three Norse countries belong in the zone of democracy which skirts the European shore of the Atlantic from Finland to Spain. In order to promote economic recuperation they have not found it necessary to abolish free institutions and set up a form of permanent civil war disguised as authoritarian government.

This is all the more striking because the Scandinavian peoples live on the very edge of the Nazi Reich, and the Nazi way of life and their contacts with the German people are close.

RELIGIOUS SERVICES ARE ANNOUNCED FOR THE BRISTOL CHURCHES FOR SUNDAY

A call for a national day of prayer has been issued, with the Christians of the United States being asked to observe tomorrow as a day of prayer for repentance and revival.

With sacred institutions threatened, a spiritual revival is believed by Christian leaders to be the crying need of the times.

"If my people, which are called by my name, shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land," are the timely words as found in II Chronicles, 7:14. Instead of the regular preaching services, it is recommended that only brief messages and exhortations be given on the subject of prayer, and that most of the time be devoted by the people to prayer.

GALA ACTIVITIES IN PARIS CLOSE OUT THE SADNESS OF RAINS

By Nadia De Beaud
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

PARIS — (INS) — With the passing of Indian Summer's soft, warm days, grey settles on the old capital, making the century old buildings look even blacker and older. The dismal sky with rare glimpses of the sun makes homes more inviting and social functions start up. Gala dinners at hotels, concerts, club life distractions close out the sadness of the rain sodden streets.

During the dinner hour at the Hotel

Ritz this week, I saw a number of the Parisian elegantes. There was the ultra smart Countess de Gabriac in a startling Patou gown of royal blue velvet. The bodice in the back was made bolero fashion, allowing her skin to show at every movement.

Another person I saw was the Princess Amedee de Broglie, belonging to one of the richest French families, in a Lelong gown of prune colored satin—this is a new color—of long lines, the bodice slightly draped, with the pleats held in place by a diamond brooch.

DIGGING UP EVIDENCE

AKRON, O. — (INS) — Detectives and juvenile authorities had a work-out with the shovel and pick here because a 9-year-old boy, after stealing his teacher's purse and rings valued at more than $400, forgot where he put the loot. The authorities dug up most of the yard where the boy lived because he had washed his hands when he came into the house after the robbery. The loot was found.

FLYING FISTS MARK GRIDIRON CONTEST

By Jack Orr
(H. S. Reporter)

Amidst innumerable riots, squalls and fist fights the Bristol High School Bunnies won their sixth conquest of the season yesterday from the Blue and Yellow of Bordentown, 7-0.

The game itself was a small feature compared to some of the fifth-best playing shown in these parts in some time. Biting, gouging and flying fists were only part of the dirty play of the Bordentown eleven which was fighting hard for victory and let nothing stand in their way.

All this went unnoticed by the Jersey officials as for the second consecutive fray the Cardinal and Gray were treated to some of the worst officiating ever seen by your scribe. Clipping and slugging were not noticed when the Bordentown eleven was the offender, but the slightest infraction by the Bunnies gave the Jersey club a penalty.

In all, the Yellow and Blue were penalized twice for a total of ten yards, while the Bristollans were charged with breaking the rules no less than eight times for a yardage of 75.

After a scoreless first half the Cardinal and Gray hit their stride and scored the only touchdown of the day.

Following an exchange of kicks, the Bristol boys, despite all efforts of the referee and umpire to stop them, counted from the 30-yard line.

After two penalties took the "apple" back from the 12-yard marker, "Sammy" Ross, taking a reverse from "Jim" Spencer, scored for his eighth touchdown of the campaign. Spencer backed the line to add the extra point.

As the fourth period started the Bordentown lads, encouraged by their rotors, began to show their teeth more and more. After each play fights were narrowly averted but the honorable officials of the Jersey state seemed to have forgotten their rule books and let each penalty slip.

With time going faster and faster, the Bordentowners were getting desperate. It was Bristol's ball on their own 20-yard line and Zefferi punted to the Bordentown 30. There "Jimmie" Boldizer set sail for the goal line seventy yards away.

He arrived there with plenty room to spare but the linesman called the play back stating that Boldizer went out of bounds on the forty.

Then a riot ensued. The vicious home-town rooters stormed on the field led by the Bordentown coach, captain, and Boldizer himself, determined to change the official's mind. But it was not so—the head linesman stuck to his post and called the only play which favored the visitors all afternoon. The runner was undisputedly out of bounds but the unsportsmanlike Bordentowners were hard to convince.

Finally with the aid of the New Jersey State Police the field was cleared and ready for action.

The Yellow and Blue Jersey eleven then proceeded to throw four incomplete passes and it was Bristol's ball once more.

On the next play the spectators saw what is probably one of the finest exhibitions of sportsmanship ever shown on an athletic field.

"Dink" Dimon, guard of the Bordentown aggregation, who had been fouling all day tried to climax the game with a brilliant fist fight.

The first person he saw was "Tom" Profy, who had been playing a clean, hang-up game all afternoon. "Prof" made tackle after tackle and showed real "stuff" under fire.

Dimon rushed at Profy with both fists flying. "Tom," who had instructions from Coach Dougherty not to fight back, stood there and took every punch before they jumped Dimon, the demon, and pulled him off.

This was one of the finest exhibitions of keeping cool under fire ever seen around these parts. "Tom" simply rolled with each punch.

A fine tribute to Profy was paid by Coach Dougherty before the entire football squad, stating it was the most sportsmanlike gesture he had ever seen anywhere.

Not one of the starting eleven from Bristol came out of the fray without some injury or other from the vicious, foul, kicks of the Yellow and Blue.

These injuries will probably make Bristol the underdog when they meet their ancient rivals, Morrisville, in the annual turkey day classic to be played here on Thanksgiving.

It seems to us if there is a New Jersey Officials' Association they should certainly call the six members who worked the Burlington and Bordentown games and be severely reprimanded. They certainly need it.

Kate Smith Accepts Invitation To Uncle WIP's Toyland Parade

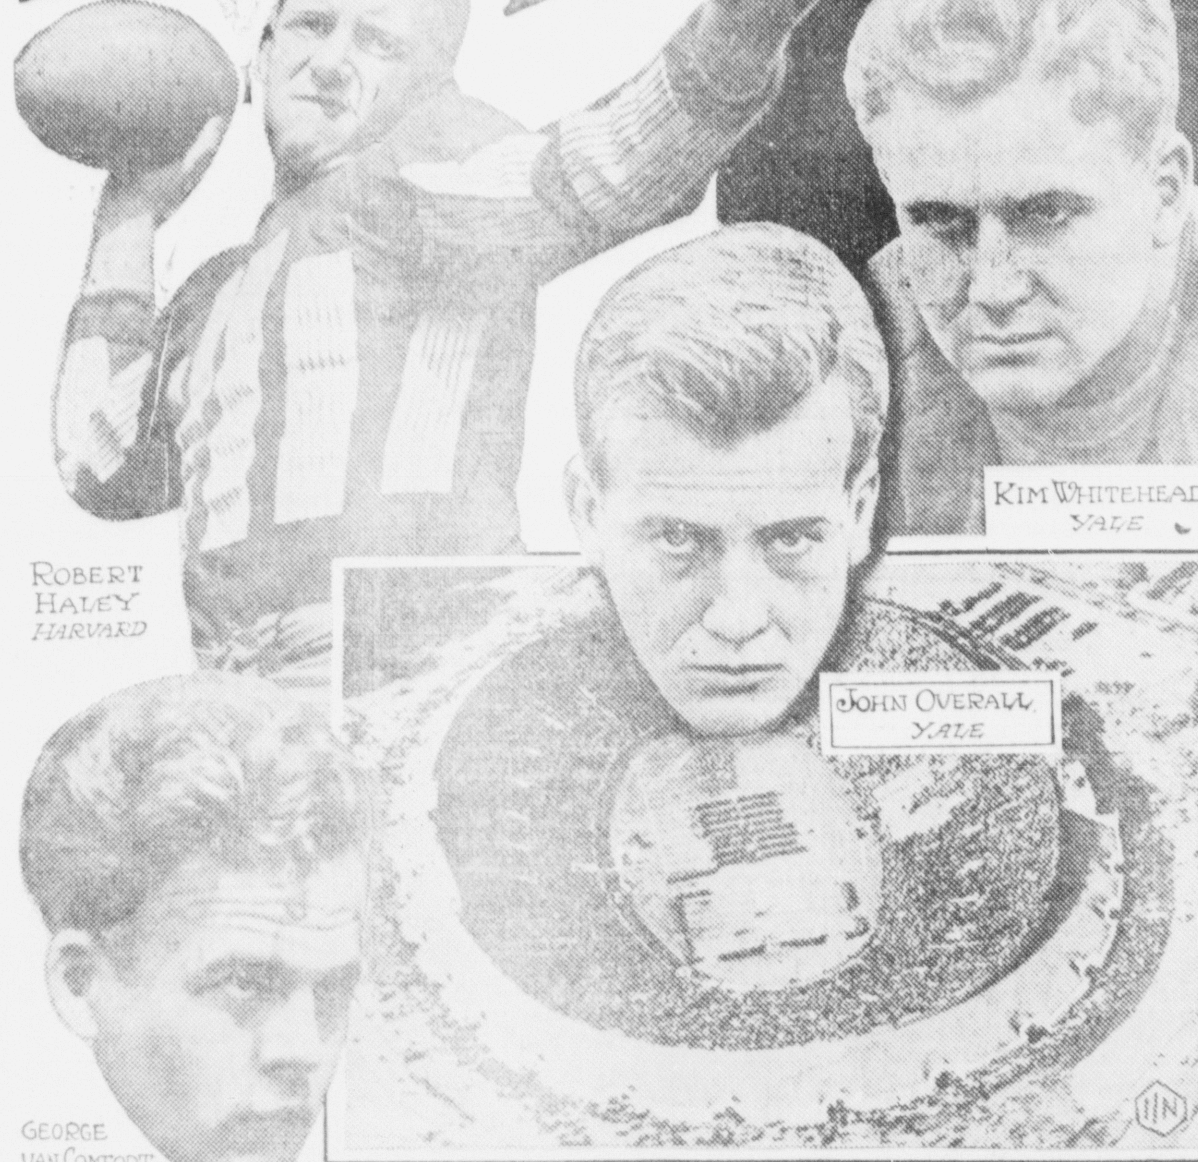

"When the moon comes over the mountain" or, better still, "when the sun comes over the mountain I'll be there," says Kate Smith as she accepts Mr. Ellis A. Gimbel's invitation to the Tenth Annual Thanksgiving Day Parade, held by Gimbel Brothers on the morning of the 29th of November. Felix Adler, better known as "The King of Clowns," a star of the sawdust, who has just returned from a tour of the country with Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey Combined Tent Show, tendered the invitation on behalf of Mr. Gimbel last night at the Arcadia International Restaurant, where Kate Smith is appearing.

Mr. Ellis A. Gimbel, as in the past, has invited thousands of children from institutions in and around Philadelphia to witness this rollicking, thrilling spectacle. Stands are now being erected at City Hall and our own Mayor Moore will be on hand to welcome St. Nick when he makes his triumphal entry down Broad Street and, think of it, Kate Smith, whose voice thrills so many people, will inspect the route of the Parade and sit in the box reserved for distinguished guests in the reviewing stand that will surround City Hall.

Uncle WIP's Thanksgiving Day Parade this year will be nearly two miles long, starting at 21st and Spring Garden sts., it will proceed north on 21st st. to Corinthian ave., then north on Corinthian ave. to Girard ave., where it will swing east and turn south at Broad st. to go around City Hall and continue south to Pine st.; at Pine st. the Parade will turn north to Market st. and then east to the Gimbel Store, where Santa will climb a 100-foot ladder to take up his abode at Uncle WIP's Toyland and officially open the festive season in Philadelphia. . . . again Gimbel Brothers will add a thrill to this annual parade by releasing 2500 balloons, many containing cash prizes. There will be nearly 1000 musicians in line, several hundred horses and over 500 clowns specially trained in the art of fun-making by Felix Adler . . . and Kate Smith, through the courtesy of the Arcadia International Restaurant, will be on hand.

Crimson and Blue in Fifty-Third Clash

YALE v. HARVARD

YALE BOWL

Saturday's game at Yale Bowl, New Haven, while anything but a meeting of champions, will attract a capacity crowd as the high spot of the season for the traditional rivals. It will mark the fifty-third battle between the eleven of Yale and Harvard with Eli favored to win. The Crimson may upset the dope, however, as Yale's "iron men" were mighty tired after last Saturday's sensational victory over Princeton, while Harvard's squad was scoring an easy victory over New Hampshire.

SMALL BULBS FOR POTS AND PANS

Dainty decorations in the way of pots and pans of the small flowering bulbs are displayed in florists' windows each winter. They are easy plants to grow at home with a minimum of expense and trouble. For this purpose the scillas, grape hyacinths, crocuses, glories of the snow, and snowdrops are easy subjects. The main feature is not to give them too much heat.

All of these may be potted up now and set indoors to remain until freezing weather, when they may be brought into the house and to the light gradually as top growth advances.

Lilies of the valley are one of the easiest of house plants to handle. Pot up a supply of the prepared pips from the florist and set them outdoors, leaving them until they are thoroughly frozen and bringing in a pot at intervals, as desired. Thawed out gradually, growth starts and in a very short time there is a display of the fragrant snowy bells.

Crocuses are also easily grown indoors. Half a dozen bulbs in a bulb pan will give a fine display. Set them away to make roots, as is done with hyacinths, and when the top growth is well above the soil bring them into the light. They open quickly and a succession of bloom will give nearly a month of beauty.

The Siberian scillas are equally easy, as are the chionodoxas or glories of the snow. The dainty snowdrops need more care and a little too much heat does for them. They must have a cold room, but once the blooms are out they can be brought to warmer quarters.

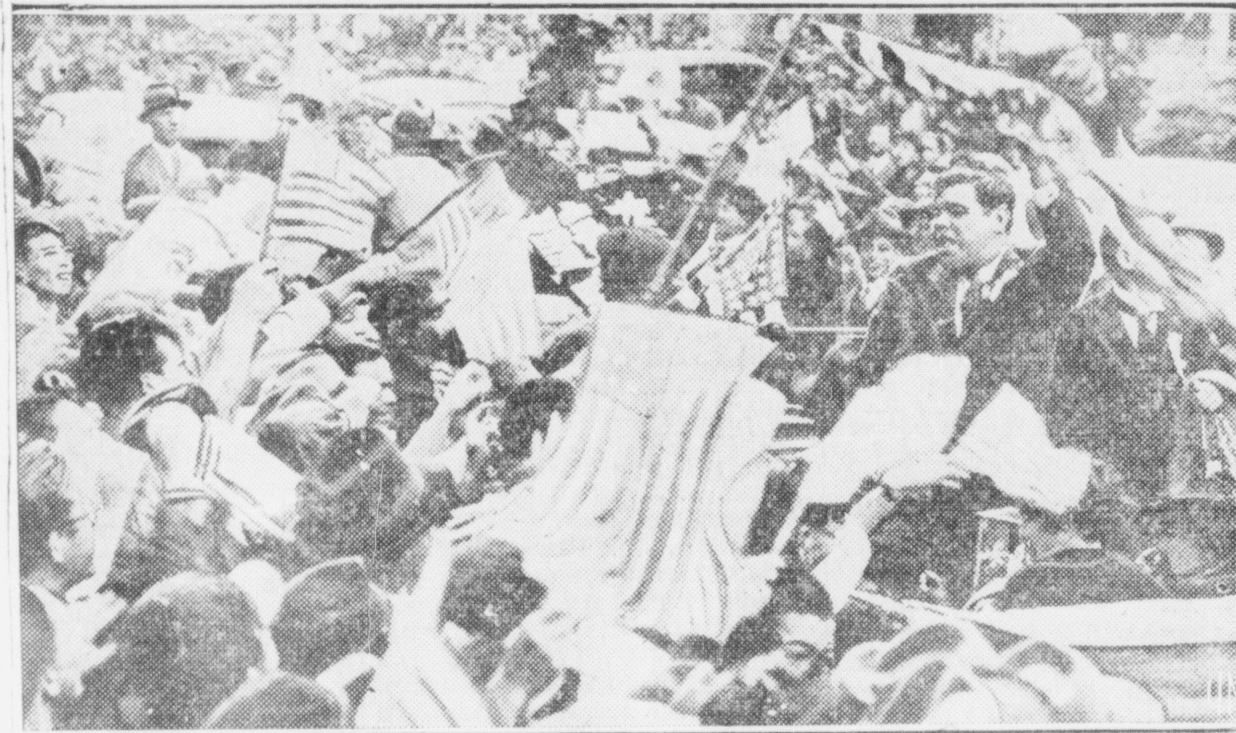

Grape hyacinths have become one of the chief favorites among florists, as their dainty spikes of sky-blue "grapes" make exceedingly effective pots.

All these small bulbs should be planted in quantity all about the garden, and when they are going into the garden, save a handful of each for growing indoors. They will well pay the trouble and their dainty beauty is as much appreciated as the more stately hyacinths and narcissi.

It's Banzi Bambino as Ruth Conquers Japan

Babe Ruth responds to the cheers of Tokio crowds as stars. The Bambino received the greatest ovation he is driven through the streets of Japan's capital on accorded any visitor to Nippon, a crowd of 100,000 his arrival to play with a team of American League having met him at the station.

New Hub Hero

By BURNLEY

MR. THOMAS YAWKEY, millionaire sportsman and owner of the Boston Red Sox, continues to leave no stone unturned—and no dollar unspent—in his efforts to give Hub baseball fans a pennant winning team.

Thomas has provided the Hot Stove League with plenty of fuel by his spectacular purchase of Joe Cronin, famous shortstop-manager, from the Washington Senators at a price which was reported as the largest ever paid for a baseball player.

Despite the fact that the 1935 baseball season is still a long way off, Beantown enthusiasts are all worked up over the Red Sox's pennant prospects with the fiery Cronin at the helm.

The likable Joe should become a popular idol at the Hub, since he is a clean-cut, personable youngster and a great player, besides being a natural leader with that immortal fire so necessary to inspire a team.

And on top of this, Cronin is an Irishman, and the large Celtic population of Boston will be quick to adopt him for their own.

Joe has been signed to a 5-year contract by Yawkey, and naturally he is delighted to be given a fine opportunity such as the Red Sox managerial post will afford.

The wealthy owner of the Crimson Hose will supply Cronin with all the talent available in the way of playing material, and so the former Senator star is almost certainly due to be a sure-fire success in his new position as playing leader of the Bosox.

Some baseball men, including Ed Barrow of the Yankees, do not think that the Cronin deal will make the Red Sox into pennant contenders; but the fact remains that if Lefty Grove had performed up to expectations last year, Boston and not Detroit, perhaps, would have been in the world series. And just suppose Grove's ailing soupbone regains its old magic next season—then the Red Sox will be hard to stop.

Meanwhile, who said that Lou Gehrig and Dizzy Dean were the "most valuable players" of the year? Master Cronin, wearing a price tag of well over $125,000, certainly appears to be the most "valuable" guy around.
